"Blue Jean Nights" at the 2013 Caroline-Dorchester County Fair

The Caroline-Dorchester County Fair, the fastest growing little Fair on the Shore, will offer an array of family fun activities during the four days of its operation – July 31st through August 3rd.

The Caroline-Dorchester County Fair Board extends an invitation to all to attend the 2013 County Fair, full of events you won't want to miss.

The Fair is the result of many adult volunteers, working practically year round to provide a high quality event celebrating a yearlong effort of Caroline and Dorchester 4-H'ers completing projects and Agriculture – the #1 industry of both counties.

Held at the 4-H & Youth Park on Detour Road, off Route 16 West, South of Denton, the fair offers an opportunity for Caroline and Dorchester 4-H'ers as well as other youth and adults from the surrounding communities to showcase their accomplishments over the past year as well as for all people of the area to come out and enjoy a pleasant day with their neighbors.

The fair will officially open on Wednesday, July 31st at 4 p.m. and will continue through Saturday, August 3rd till 11 PM. The theme of this year's fair is "Blue Jean Nights at the Caroline-Dorchester County Fair".

Opening day activities include the Royal Pageant, Outhouse Races, and the 4-H Decorated Cake Auction. Amusements will also be open that evening.

"Children's Day" will be returning for the 4th year on Thursday, August 1st from 9 AM – 1 PM for all youth 12 and under. All Day Care providers, along with the children they care for, will be admitted FREE with a special pass or a copy of their day care license. Dog Show, Pet Show will be held on Saturday, August 3rd. Of course, there will be many traditional farmyard animals on display all week for youngsters and their parents to enjoy. There will also be some exotic animals on display during the fair.

We will be having a Mounted Cowboy Shooting Demonstration on Friday, August 2nd at 7:30 PM. Some favorite events will also be back, including the Greased Pig and Dress A Goat contest, and will be held on Friday evening, August 2nd. Saturday's events include the Baby Contest, Jousting Tournament and the Ag Trivia Contest. Saturday, August 3rd, will also have a visit from a Medevac Helicopter, barring an emergency; and a trick horseback rider at 6 PM on Saturday.

We're excited to have Pro Parties provide our Midway attractions again this year. New rides and other amusements including a rock wall and inflatables will be available, all reasonably priced for the family to enjoy. Look for some new attractions as well. There is a special price on Children's day with most amusements being $1 each from 10 AM to 1 PM.

This year's entertainment schedule is a busy one and has something for everyone. The line-up includes "The Jones Boys" on Thursday evening from 7 – 10 PM. Friday evening's entertainment will be "The Absolute", a new band based out of Easton, MD. Saturday's entertainment will include the "Mid-Shore Idol Contest" starting at 5 PM. Then to close out the Fair "Mike Hines and The Look" will be taking the stage at 8 PM.

For the entire family there will be an abundant menu of foods for all tastes. The Fair Board will be serving dinners each evening, starting with Fried Chicken on Wednesday, Crab Cake Dinner on Thursday, and Beef Dinner on Friday, and Saturday's dinner will be Chicken BBQ. A wide variety of other foods will be available for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

Local Law Enforcement Officers Attend Law Enforcement Underage Drinking Party Dispersal Training

By Vernon Spriggs, CPP / Prevention Coordinator Caroline County Health Department

On June 10, 2013 from 4 PM to midnight, officers from Caroline, Kent and Queen Anne's Counties along with officers from the Maryland State Police and Queen Anne County Assistant State's Attorney attended Law Enforcement Underage Drinking Party Dispersal Training, at the Queen Anne County Sheriff's Office. This training was provided by the National Alcohol Enforcement Training Center and paid for through a collaborative effort with Caroline, Kent and Queen Anne's County Health Department's Prevention Offices.

This Alcohol Enforcement Training provided participants with the latest information on alcohol laws and criminal/civic citation writing techniques, plus alcohol surveillance/investigations/DUI tracking. They learned effective methods to manage and disperse underage drinking parties with limited resources. Fake ID's and handling specific alcohol related problems were discussed. Course work and role-play were part of the course.

On behalf of Caroline County, I would like to thank our officers for not only attending, but for passing the written quiz, each, with a grade of 100% correct! I'd also would like to thank Lieutenant Ron Dixon for sending the following officers: Dep. Stacey Lopez, Cpl. Brett Lysinger, Sgt. Nancy Nagel, Dep. Jared Royer and Dfc. Tom Walsh. Further, we thank the Caroline County Sheriff's Department for your service to the citizens and workforce of Caroline County, MD.

Drug Free Caroline Coalition

Smart Choices = Bright Futures

Our mission at the Drug Free Caroline Coalition (DFCC) is to engage the members of our community in prevention efforts toward changing attitudes and behaviors that have supported substance use/ abuse in Caroline County.

According to WBOC news, collaborative efforts of the Caroline County Drug Task Force, Caroline County Shefiff's Office, the Talbot, County Narcotics Drug Task Force, MSP Barrack "I" Easton and the MSP Criminal Enforcement Divison resulted in the synthethic marijuana bust recently in Caroline County.

Synthetic marijuana was seized from Sam's Main Street Market, Marydel on Wednesday, June 12th. The Caroline County Drug Task Force seized about 4, 700 packages of suspected marijuana along with $1,287 in cash. The street value is approximately $160,000. According to police, the search warrant execution was the culmination of a year-long investigation into the sale of synthetic marijuana, also referred to as K-2, Spice, and numerous other street names.

Information and education is a key to awareness of substance abuse/use in Caroline County. The following information provided the Allegany County Health Department defines synthetic drugs.

WHAT ARE SYNTHETIC DRUGS?

Synthetic drugs are chemically laced substances similar to marijuana, cocaine and methamphetamine that are sold over the counter at some convenience stores, gas stations and tobacco shops. Based on their chemical make-up, these drugs are commonly divided into two categories:

- Cannabinoids which are popularly known as K2 or Spice. Cannabinoids are chemically formulated versions of synthetic marijuana that consist of lab-manufactured THC.

Caroline Mentoring Project

- Cathinones are often known as "bath salts". Cathinones contain chemical compounds that mimic the effects of cocaine or meth.

Though the drugs' packaging states the products are not intended for human consumption, their design, labeling and marketing clearly allude to the products being smoked and/or inhaled as a drug.

WHY ARE THEY SO DANGEROUS?

One reason that synthetic drugs are extremely dangerous is that buyers don't know what chemicals they are ingesting. Individual products can contain a vast range of different chemical formulations and potencies, some of which can be two to 500 times stronger than THC.

WHY AREN'T THESE DRUGS ILLEGAL?

Although Maryland has implemented bans on specific formulas of synthetic marijuana and bath salts, drug makers can easily sidestep these regulations. Manufacturers adapt simply by replacing the chemical compound of a banned synthetic cannabinoid or cathinone with a newer formulation that is not yet known to authorities. This modification process poses increasing risk to its users, who are unaware of the reactions the new chemicals may cause.

Interestingly, despite Maryland laws and federal laws synthetic drugs can be purchased on-line. Therefore, the DFCC recommends that parents and guardians be aware of charges made to their accounts since a credit card can be used to order these drugs easily.

Finally, the DFCC will sponsor Be The Wall/Healthy Choices Awareness Day on Saturday, August 10th at the Denton Walmart from 1:00-5:00 PM. This collaborative effort will be supported by the following community agencies:

Drug Free Caroline Coalition (DFCC), Caroline County Prevention Office, Caroline County Addicitons Office, Tobacco Out Reach Program- Caroline Health Department, Minorities Outreach Technical Assistance (M.O.T.A.) and the Caroline County Family YMCA.

Information will be available for children and adults about substance abuse/use. Drawings and raffles will be a part of the day activities.

The DFCC invites parents to: Be clear, Be firm, Be consistent - Be The Wall!

Eastern Shore Threshermen 53rd Annual Show / August 2, 3, 4

The Eastern Shore Threshermen & Collectors Assoc., Inc. will be holding their 53rd annual Wheat Threshing, Steam & Gas Engine Show August 2, 3, 4, 2013 at their showgrounds located on Rt. 313 between Denton and Federalsburg, Maryland. The show features free admission and free parking and opens at 10 AM each day.

There will be steam engines, antique tractors, gas engines, antique cars and steam models in operation. Among the demonstrations will be wheat threshing, shingle sawing, sawing with miniature and full size sawmills, and rock crushing. A daily parade of all equipment will be held at 5 PM on Friday and Saturday and at 4 PM on Sunday. Kids of all ages enjoy riding "Smokey Joe", a miniature steam train which is a replica of the Civil War era "General" locomotive.

There will be something for everyone in the large flea market with over 125 dealers.

Friday evening will feature the classic country music sounds of "Just Because" and "Flatland Drive" will perform bluegrass music on Saturday evening. Sunday will feature gospel music at 5 PM. All shows are free.

There will also be church services Sunday morning at 9 AM.

Exhibitors of antique tractors and steam engines can test their driving skills in the tractor games where they will be competing for trophies. Games will be held Friday and Saturday following the parades at 5 PM.

Exhibitors of all kinds of antique equipment are welcome. There is no charge to exhibit. All times are subject to weather conditions. The public is invited to come out and see how our grandparents farmed and old-timers can reminisce of the good old days. For more information call 410-754-8422, 410-673-2414 or visit our website at: www.threshermen.org. GPS address: 5806 Federalsburg Hwy., Federalsburg, MD.

There will be plenty of good food with fried chicken dinners, crab cakes, hamburgers and hot dogs.

Tractor games are fun for everyone. It challenges the tractor operator to games of skill. The winners drive away with a trophy.

Threshing wheat was how the grain was separated from the straw before the modern combine. This photo has two threshers running at the same time -- a Frick (on the far side) and a John Deere. People love to see how equipment was used in the past.

Caroline County Honors 2013 Foster Parents

Caroline County Department of Social Services honored its foster parents at an appreciation dinner at Kent Island Yacht Club in Chester. During the event, Patrick and Rachel Hubbard of Bethlehem were named the 2013 Foster Parents of the Year for Caroline County. The Hubbard's, who are fostering a sibling group of three, have only been licensed as foster parents for eighteen months.

According to Robin Bigelow, Caroline County's Foster Care coordinator, "Rachel and Patrick demonstrate all that is hoped for in good foster families and have displayed the patience and understanding of seasoned foster parents."

According to Rachel Hubbard, the reward comes from watching her foster children blossom. She states, "It has been rewarding to see the growth in the children – to see them laugh and play together – just watching them be kids."

For information about becoming a foster parent, contact the Caroline County Department of Social Services at 410-819-4500. A foster parent information session will be held on August 8, 2013, from 6 to 7:30 PM at the Talbot County Department of Social Services on Bay Street in Easton, MD.

Caroline Summerfest Celebrates 25th Anniversary August 16-17

Grab your "pardner" and join us for a rootin' tootin' time in downtown Denton

In 1989, a gallon of gas was $1.12, the Cosby Show ruled the television airwaves, and a small group of local officials in Denton were trying to figure out how to entertain 1,000 cyclists coming through town for the inaugural Cycle Across Maryland ride. The solution, a one-night, one-block party celebration, and the beginning of what is now known as Caroline Summerfest, a two-day event covering more than four blocks in downtown Denton.

This year's event, the Silver Dollar Anniversary – with a western theme, will be held on Friday, August 16 from 5 to10 p.m. and Saturday, August 17, from noon to 9 p.m. The rain date for Saturday only is Sunday, August 18.

Caroline Summerfest is the traditional end of the summer celebration for area families. The free festival features three stages of regional and local entertainment, a pedestrian parade, fireworks, strolling performers, free KidZart! activities and food and gaming vendors, benefiting local non-profits. Free parking and shuttle bus transportation is available from the Health and Public Services Building off 6th Street (across from Fire Hall) on both days.

This year's musical entertainment includes Caroline Summerfest favorites The Jones Boys, the Ashley Mitchell Band, Mike Hines, Mule Train, and street drummer Tommy "Buckets" Pisciotta as well as:

Why are Mortgage Rates So High?

Wow, what a difference a month can make. You may recall that in last month's article I attempted to explain in layman's terms why interest rates have been so low for the last two years. This month I will attempt to play off of that discussion by explaining why mortgage rates are so high.

The Federal Reserve's purchase of Mortgage Backed Securities and Treasury bonds is called "Quantitative Easing" or "QE" for short. The first round of Quantitative Easing started in November of 2008 in response to the stock market meltdown and failures of large banks and brokerage houses. This action was done to shore up our financial system and keep our economy from collapsing.

The third renewal of Quantitative Easing occurred in October 2012. When announcing this last commitment to provide liquidity to the economy by putting more money in banks' pockets to lend and thus keep rates low, the Fed stated it was doing so until possibly as late as Mid 2015, and would not consider easing these purchases to any great extent until unemployment hit 6.5% and inflation stabilized around 2%.

With unemployment still in the 7.6% range and inflation in the 1% to 1.25% range one could assume that mortgage rates should hold steady in the 3% to 3.5% range depending on the term of the mortgage.

BUT, that is not the case in Mid July 2013. As I write this, 30 year fixed interest rates are 4.75% to 5.25% with no points. These rates will vary depending upon loan program, credit scores and loan to value. And if you are refinancing and taking extra cash out, (more than the payoff of your mortgage) and you have credit scores below 700 you could be paying as much as 5.75%.

This is quite a jump from where we were two months ago and about ½% higher than we were just one month ago.

It appears that the market has overreacted to the news that the end to QE is coming sooner than mid 2015. Some Federal Reserve members have advocated for ending QE right away while others are holding to the original targets of 6.5% unemployment and 2% inflation.

This lack of unanimousity among members of the Federal Reserve creates an air of uncertainty in the market; so much so that mortgage rates are often changing more than once a day.

But is all this really bad news? I don't think so.

Interest rates at 4.5% to 5% may not sound as good as 3.25% to 3.75% but it is much better than 6% to 6.5%, which is where rates were back in the days of runaway real estate prices.

Everything in real estate is relative. At times of higher interest rates, when properties were selling for nearly twice what they are selling for now you would need a minimum salary of $70,000 to afford the average priced home of $250,000. Today, the average price home is nearly $100,000 less than that and you only need about $42,000 to $44,000 to qualify to purchase a home.

The reality is lower prices far outweigh higher interest rates as a factor affecting homeownership. The up tick in interest rates has not affected demand because prices are still in the affordable range. A bigger problem for most serious buyers is a lack of inventory.

It is not uncommon for a reasonably priced home to attract the attention of several buyers at the same time. Many realtors are seeing homes with multiple offers being made at the same time, and prices exceeding the list price in some cases.

This increase in demand is straining an already limited inventory to the extent that some buyers are stepping back and taking a pause in their house hunting. This strategy may backfire as prices begin to increase, if demand continues to outweigh supply.

Supply of homes for sale is set to increase over the next 60 to 90 days as foreclosure activity begins to pick up again. Lenders have been mired in the legally required mediation process with many homeowners in default of their mortgages. As the mediation process concludes and a resolution is not met the foreclosure sale can occur. And we have seen an increase in foreclosure activity in the last 60 days, which will conclude with many lenders owning the properties and putting them back on the market for sale. I look for the supply to increase as we get closer to the end of the year.

So, if you have been considering selling your home and buying up or if you are considering buying your first home now is a really good time. Don't let interest rates delay your decision. Rates are not going back to where they were in April 2013 and prices aren't going to be decreasing, and there is a real possibility that they will be higher six months from now.

Help Needed for Codie

DELMARVA Search and Rescue, Inc. is a professional, volunteer organization of men and women who preserve life when the odds are stacked against the victim. There are many who serve in this group: military, fire/rescue, medical/EMS, police/corrections, and civilian trained responders.

One special member of this elite group is a Search and Rescue canine who has served Delmarva for over seven years. Codie, an eight-year old Lab Border Collie mix, has participated in countless missions throughout Maryland, Delaware and Virginia. He has also obtained a Canine Good Citizenship Award through the American Kennel Club.

Some of the more notable searches he has participated in on the Delmarva Peninsula are the Sarah Foxwell search in Wicomico County, the search for the three Haitian boys in Federalsburg who last year had drowned in the Marshyhope Creek, and more recently, the search for Robin Pope who went missing from her home on Kent Island.

Codie also contributes to the community by doing presentations at community events, such as Easton's "Bark in the Park" fundraiser for local humane societies and the New Castle County Civil Air Patrol Win in New Castle, Delaware. He has also participated in the work fairs at Preston Elementary School for the past six years, and at Denton Elementary School and Greensboro Elementary School in Caroline County. Codie has been invited to be the "Reader Dog" for the Preston Elementary School where children with disabilities read stories to the dog. Although the program has not been completely established, the invitation was made for Codie to participate.

Codie's handler is Elise O'Brien, National Association for Search and Rescue SARTECH 2. O'Brien is certified as an obedience trainer and teaches K-9 obedience in the Easton area. O'Brien and Codie, who reside in the Preston area, are both local heroes who serve their community with little or no recognition or praise for all their efforts and the countless hours they volunteer. Their essential lifesaving service to Delmarva is done at O'Brien's own expense.

Sadly enough, Codie was recently diagnosed with a torn Caudal Cruciate Ligament (CCL) which he obtained during a training exercise. This injury on a K-9 is the equivalent to a torn ACL in a human. While Codie has potentially years left to provide needed services to Delmarva, he will need to receive surgery in order to continue. A Tibial Plateau Leveling Osteotomy (TPLO) will correct the injury and allow Codie to live a normal pain-free life. Dr. Sherman Canapp of the Veterinary Orthopedic Sports Medicine Center located in Annapolis Junction, Maryland has agreed to perform the surgery at a discounted rate. However, for the anticipated expenses, DELMARVA Search and Rescue, Inc. is seeking the public's help in raising funds to get this much deserved surgery in order to return him to good health.

Scout and Groups Working Together to Meet Human Need

by Pat Bradley

This is a beautiful story about human resources meeting human needs. In this case the human resources were in the form of an Eagle Scout candidate, a philanthropic fund and an organization of skilled volunteers; the human need was an elderly county resident.

Jean Bolden is an eighty-two year old life-long resident of Federalsburg currently living with her granddaughter in a home they own on South Main Street. Jean had been experiencing difficulty navigating the steep entries to their home. A solution to this difficulty would be an access ramp, but expense was a prohibiting factor. It was a situation tailor-made for Rebuilding Together/Caroline County, a non-profit, all-volunteer organization that provides free services to county homeowners facing necessary but unaffordable dwelling repairs or improvements.

Jean and her granddaughter were encouraged to make application to Rebuilding Together/Caroline County which they did in December, 2012. As is the practice with all applications received, a Rebuilding Together/Caroline County staff volunteer, Diane Wojcik, reviewed the completed forms to verify eligibility. Following the successful review a recommendation was made to the organization's membership that the application be approved. With membership approval granted, Jean was notified of her status, Rebuilding Together organization members Bob Lewis and Derrick Brummell agreed to lead the effort, Bob was named Team Captain and the planning of Jean Bolden's entry ramp began.

This project provided an opportunity for Rebuilding Together to broaden its involvement of Caroline County organizations with the inclusion of Eagle Scout candidate Glenn Herb as a principal member of the ramp project. Glenn had been looking for a project to support his application for Eagle Scout and, having some experience in small structure repairs, Glenn found the ramp construction idea appealing. With the approval and support of Scout Master Walt Palmer, Glenn made application to project Team Captain Bob Lewis. With his application approved Glenn joined Bob in planning the project including a review of stringent safety standards. Later, during the actual construction, about a dozen Scouts from Glenn's troop joined the effort.

While Rebuilding Together is gratefully dependent on contributions of volunteer labor, its projects would not become reality without financial contributions. A strong financial supporter of Rebuilding Together/Caroline County since its beginning eight years ago has been the Women and Girls Fund. As its name implies, this Fund exists to promote and support the causes of women and girls in the five county Eastern Shore region. So, applying Women and Girls Fund to Jean Bolton's need was a most appropriate match.

With ramp construction complete unused construction material was strewn over what had been a lawn. Derick's response was to personally gather and remove the material and transform it into a rabbit hutch for a family in his neighborhood; he has strong feelings about recycling as well as helping out his neighbors. Glenn's post-ramp momentum channeled into landscaping of the surrounding ground with his labor and funding provided as a personal effort.

Because of Scouting, Rebuilding Together, and the Women and Girls Fund ours is a stronger community.

Facts Matter When Your Health Is At Stake

(BPT) - Learning that you have a disease or medical condition can be overwhelming. You need to learn more about your condition. You may get advice from all directions - from well-meaning friends and family, the Internet, magazines, newspapers and television. But in the end, you want to understand your treatment options so that you can discuss your choices with your health care provider.

But how do you know what information to trust?

Every patient is unique and has different questions about his or her treatment options. While we may learn from others' experiences, everyone can benefit from factual, unbiased information. The Federal Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ) is a great place to start exploring facts about treatment options for many common health conditions.-

AHRQ takes the scientific facts and puts them into easy-to-read summaries that help people and their health care providers weigh the pros and cons of treatment options - such as comparing different medications for type 2 diabetes or treatments for high cholesterol. AHRQ's resources also suggest important questions to ask your health care team. After all, understanding the facts about your treatment options will help you make educated decisions about what is best for you or your loved ones.

Three steps can help you prepare for your next medical appointment:

Explore: Explore AHRQ's free resources to learn more about available treatment options for your condition. AHRQ has information about a wide range of health conditions such as heart disease, diabetes, mental health, men's and women's health, and muscle, bone and joint conditions.

Compare: Read about the benefits, risks, and potential side effects for each treatment. Discuss with your health care provider what is most important to you and your loved ones as you explore potential treatments.

One of the many challenges faced by King Peggy in her governing role in the village of Otuam is the lack of water. To increase our appreciation of this problem, two Caroline County residents will present their first-hand experiences. Ken Wood of Lifetime Wells for Ghana, Inc. and William Sparks, Vice President of ACDI/VOCA have spent considerable time working in Africa on water issues, both for personal consumption and for agricultural development. A Question and Answer session will follow their presentations. Free. No registration required.

Ban on the Sale of Baby Crib Bumper Pads in Maryland

Submitted By: Connie Jones, CNA III
Caroline County Health Department

Maryland's ban on the sale of crib bumper pads took effect as of June 21, 2013. After gathering feedback and data on the topic for more than a year, the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene concluded that the crib bumper pads present a rare but real risk of suffocation and strangulation to babies. The action follows the Department's conclusion that baby crib bumper pads, intended for infants up to the age of five or six months, offer no meaningful benefit and pose a potentially serious risk to infant health. The Maryland chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics and numerous safety experts agreed with this conclusion and urged the Department to prohibit the sale of these products. Maryland's Chief Medical Examiner has found that crib bumper pads pose a risk of suffocation and death.

The regulation defines baby bumper pads as "a pad or pads of non-mesh material resting directly above the mattress in a crib, running the circumference of the crib or along any of the interior sides of the crib and intended to be used until the age that an infant pulls to stand." The ban does not apply to vertical bumpers that wrap tightly around each individual crib rail or to mesh crib liners. The Department, nonetheless, does not recommend the use of these or other novel products. The regulation allows the Department to alter its approach should industry standards be developed that are protective of children. However, in finalizing the regulation, the Department has concluded that existing industry standards do not pass this test.

The Department's safety message is that babies sleep best alone, on their back and in a crib. Baby bumper pads are not part of this picture and in fact can pose a serious threat to health.

Additional information about safe sleep and the crib bumper ban, as well as the fact sheet containing the new safe sleep data, can be found at: www.dhmh.maryland.gov/safesleep.

Benedictine Partners with Caroline County Recreation and Parks for ARC Swimming Lessons

This summer, Benedictine has once again opened its doors to support the need for swimming lesson sites in Caroline County. "Caroline County Recreation and Parks reached out to Benedictine for something that greatly benefits youth in the County," comments adapted physical education teacher Brett Rhodes. Rhodes adds, "Knowledge of performing basic strokes and survival skills can help prevent incidents of water related accidents." Sue Simmons, Recreation and Parks Director, advises that it's not too late to register for two-week August sessions that begin August 5th. Classes are conducted by teachers certified by the American Red Cross and include instruction for all ability levels.

August swim classes are scheduled at Benedictine's 25 meter lap pool in the Murray Family Aqua Therapy Center during early evening hours Monday-Thursday. There are four class-sessions for infants and toddlers with their parents at 5:30 p.m. each week, and eight-class sessions for beginning and more advanced swimmers all offered on the Benedictine campus in Ridgely. Register for American Red Cross Swimming Lessons online at www.carolinerecreation.org or call Caroline Recreation and Parks at 410-479-8120 for more information.

"Benedictine welcomes the opportunity to help. It's great to see children from the community enjoying use of the pool for instruction," says Scott Evans, Benedictine's Executive Director.

Benedictine is headquartered on 500 acres of farmland in Ridgely, Maryland, with residential and day educational services for up to 85 children ages 5 through 21. In addition, Benedictine operates state-licensed group homes throughout Maryland and Delaware with comprehensive vocational training and job development for over 100 adults. School Starts Soon – Is Your Child Fully Vaccinated?

Submitted By: Elaine Cowgill, Caroline County Health Department Immunization & Lead Outreach

School age children, from preschoolers to college students, need vaccines. CDC has online resources and tools to help parents and doctors make sure all kids are up-to-date on recommended vaccines and protected from serious diseases. Making sure that children of all ages receive all their vaccinations on time is one of the most important things parents can do to ensure their children's long-term health as well as the health of friends, classmates and others in the community. It's true that some vaccine-preventable diseases have become very rare thanks to vaccines. However, outbreaks still happen. For example, preliminary data through late July 2012 show that more than 20,000 cases of whooping cough (pertussis) have already been reported in this country and many cases go unreported. During this time, nine deaths have been reported—all in children younger than one year of age. Outbreaks of pertussis at middle and high schools can occur as protection from childhood vaccine fades. Another disease that can spread very easily in a school environment is measles. In 2011, the number of reported cases of measles was higher than ususal—222 people had the disease. Measles comes into the United States from countries where the disease still circulates, including many European countries. Measles can be serious, causing hospitalization and even death. Young children are at highest risk for serious complications from measles. Making sure children stay up-to-date with vaccinations is the best way to make sure our communities and schools do not see other outbreaks, with more unnecessary illnesses and deaths.

Children birth to six years of age are recommended to get vaccines to protect them from 14 diseases that can be serious, even life-threatening. Parents who choose not to vaccinate their own children increase the risk of disease not only for their children, but also for other children and adults throughout the entire community.

Flu vaccines are recommended for children in pre-school and elementary school to help keep them healthy. In fact, all children six months and older should get flu vaccines. Getting all of your children vaccinated, as well as other family members and caregivers, can help protect infants younger than six months old. Ask your family's doctor or nurse about getting flu shots or the nasal spray to protect against flu.

Children and teens 7-18 years of age need vaccines, too! Of course, everyone older than six months of age is recommended to receive a yearly flu vaccination and older children are no exception. It's important to know that flu can be serious, even for healthy young people. So older kids should get at least one flu vaccine (the shot or nasal spray for healthy kids) every year. As kids get older, they are more at risk for catching certain diseases, like meningococcal meningitis, so they need protection that vaccines provide. The recommended immunization schedule is regularly updated to include new vaccines and reflect current research. It may have changed since your child was first immunized. Specific vaccines, like HPV, which helps protect against certain cancers, are recommended to be given during the preteen (11-12) years. If your preteens or teens haven't already gotten their vaccines, they should get caught up as soon as possible. For other diseases, like whooping cough, the protection from vaccine doses received in childhood wears off over time. That's why 11 and 12 year olds are also recommended to get the booster shot called Tdap. Teens--and adults, too—who have not gotten Tdap should get this booster as soon as possible. Tdap is a version of the DTaP vaccine given to infants and young children.

If you're unsure of your school's vaccination requirements, check with your child's doctor, your child's school or your health department.

Sun Awareness

Submitted by Cathleen Bilodeau, RN, BSN
Caroline County Health Department

Why protect your skin from excessive exposure to sunlight? Sunshine is both friend and foe. The sun provides light, warmth, and is essential for growth and development of all living things. Unfortunately, excessive sun exposure can cause burns, premature aging (wrinkles and blotches), cataracts (cloudy vision), a weakened immune system, and skin cancer. Sunlight is believed to cause 80 – 90% of all skin cancer.

The three major forms of skin cancer are basal cell, squamous cell, and melanoma. Basal and squamous cell do not normally spread to other parts of the body, but melanoma can spread if not found or treated at early stages. Skin cancer can develop anywhere on your body, but it often arises from or near a mole. The most important warning sign of melanoma is a new or changing skin growth. Most spots are noncancerous, but that is why it is important to know the ABC warning signs to let your doctor know if you have any changes in your skin.

A = Asymmetric – a line drawn through the mole produces two halves that do not match.

B = Border – the border of the mole has an irregular shape of jagged edges.

C = Color – the color changes or has a mixture of colors.

D = Diameter – the diameter is larger than a pencil eraser.

Since sun exposure is understood to be the major cause of skin cancer, it is important to protect children and youth from getting too much exposure. It is a fact that 80% of an individual's lifetime contact with the sun occurs by 18 years old. Some personal high risks include being fair skinned and having light colored hair, blue or green eyes, having many moles, family history of skin cancer, and history of severe sun burns. Skin cancer can affect any person regardless of skin color.

On a positive note, skin cancer can be prevented. Remember to be safe in the sun by seeking shade and limit time in the sun between 10 AM and 4 PM, block the rays with sunscreen with an Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of 15 or greater, cover up with a wide brimmed hat and tightly woven, loose fitting clothing, and wear protective sun glasses. Your skin is your largest organ and it has an important job protecting you, remember to do so in return.

Hurricane Preparedness

The National Weather Service is predicting a high number of hurricanes and tropical storms this hurricane season. The Caroline County Department of Emergency Services urges all residents to prepare themselves and their family for the possibility of these storms. Tropical Storms and Hurricanes bring immense rainfall, very strong winds, major inconveniences, and the possibility of damages and flooding. There are simple precautions everyone can take for their family's safety.

Develop a Plan

Plan in advance what your family will do in an emergency. Plans should include a communications plan, a pet plan, address sheltering-in-place, going to Emergency Shelters and evacuation. Discuss how these storms could affect your family. Know your family and home's vulnerability to flooding and wind. Make sure family members know what to do and where to go. Have a contact outside the area for everyone to call if your family becomes separated.

- Locate a safe room or the safest areas in your home for hurricane hazards; the safest areas may not be in your home, but elsewhere within the community.
- Determine escape routes from your home and places to meet.
- Determine what to do with your pet if you need to evacuate.
- Post emergency phone numbers by the phone; make sure children know how or when to call 911.
- Check your insurance coverage, flood damage is not usually covered by homeowners insurance.

Prepare an Emergency Kit

Have an emergency supply kit. An emergency supply kit will allow you and your family to survive for several days. When preparing for a hurricane, think about the basics of survival: fresh water and food, clean air and warmth. When the electric goes out you may not be able to prepare food or obtain fresh water– have extra non-perishable food and water (1 gallon a day). Periods of these storms occur during darkness so have flashlights and extra batteries. The following are basic items every kit should include.

- Infant formula and diapers
- Radio, battery-powered or hand crank (NOAA Weather Radio) and extra batteries

Prepare Your Home

Residents should remove items from outside which may blow and hit houses or cars. Prevent water from leaking into your house. Stay away from object producing flying glass. Stay in a lower-level comfortable room away from large windows. Using your common sense can increase safety and security. Help your pets stay safe; we don't want them to suffer. After the storm hits – stay indoors - do not drive. Do not take risks. Take special precautions and wear appropriate shoes and clothing. You may need long shirts and pants.

Be Informed

Knowing what to do during an emergency is important and may make all the difference when seconds count. Be prepared for the unexpected. Being prepared means staying informed prior to and following a tropical storm or hurricane. Check all types of media – web sites, newspapers, television, radio – for national and local information. Your Emergency Management Office will provide information on such things as shelter openings and evacuation orders. Emergency Services has information packets to help you prepare, call us at 410-479-2622 or come by the office at 7 North First Street in Denton.

A special reception will be held on Friday, August 2nd, from 4 PM – 6 PM. Members of the AAQB will be on hand to discuss their work. Following the reception, AAQB member and historian, Vera P. Just prior to the reception, there will be a 3:30 PM unveiling of the Stitching Stories of Freedom Byway Quilt Block: the Cotton Boll. Information about the Byway Quilt Block Trail, a public art project, can be found on www.fiberartscenter.com/quilt-trail/.

The African-American Quilters of Baltimore was founded in 1989 by three African American quilters seeking the community of other African American quilters. Their primary goal was to offer support and information for African American quilters in an environment of acceptance and welcome. Since that time, the group has grown in size and diversity and includes quilters of all skill levels, from beginners to professionals. In addition, its members participate in projects in schools, libraries and museums in keeping with our "Each One, Teach One" philosophy. "

The Caroline County Council of Arts is sponsoring this exhibit with funding from the Maryland State Arts Council an agency dedicated to cultivating a vibrant cultural community where the arts thrive. For more information about the exhibit or FACES, please contact Marina Dowdall at the Caroline County Council of Arts at ccartscouncil@verizon.net or 410.479.1009.

CBMM Offers $5 Admission for August 10 Bicentennial

On Saturday, August 10, the Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum (CBMM) in St. Michaels is offering a discounted $5 admission in honor of the Battle of St. Michaels bicentennial being organized by the Town of St. Michaels.

"We wanted to give back to the community on the anniversary that brought about the legend of the Town that Fooled the British," said CBMM Vice President of Constituent Services René Stevenson. "The museum has deep roots in the St. Michaels community – through its founders, volunteers, members, and visitors. We hope the discounted rates will bring more of our community out to experience the event and our campus."

The $5 admission is good from 9 AM to 6 PM on August 10, and available for all visitors ages six and up, with CBMM members and kids under six admitted for free. Admission gives access to CBMM's 18-acre waterfront campus and 12 exhibit buildings, as well as the skipjack Rosie Parks restoration and CBMM's newest exhibit, "Navigating Freedom: The War of 1812 on the Chesapeake" in the Steamboat building.

"Navigating Freedom" explores the impact of the War of 1812 on the people of the Chesapeake–black and white Americans, militiamen, Baltimore merchants, and British sailors who found opportunity or misfortune amid the conflict. Their diaries, artifacts, portraits, and articles reveal their personal stories, and the ways the War of 1812 on the Chesapeake challenged American ideas about freedom.

On August 11, CBMM hosts the Talbot County Watermen's Associations Watermen's Appreciation Day and crab feast, with gates opening at 10am, and festival admission covering the crab feast, a boat docking contest, live music, and more. Tickets can be purchased in advance by visiting www.talbotwatermen.org.
